

1. We are causing complex environmental problems.

2. Meaningful change is possible through collective action.

3. We need to be both critical and open-minded.

4. It is worth trying to love each other and this world.

5. Supportive communities can help us to be willing to change.