International Librarian Week 2019

The Hebrew University of Jerusalem

17 - 21 November 2019

International Week at the Hebrew University Libraries 2019

The Library Authority is proud to invite library professionals from all academic institutions in Europe to attend the Erasmus International Week at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem.

The program will present the professional work done by the libraries and librarians at the Hebrew University in meeting local challenges such as:

- Multi-culturalism: diverse populations, diverse languages among users and in the local catalog
- Technology and innovation: for example the library management system Alma and Primo, EDS, Alma D and Orcid.
- Constant renewal and development of library services: physical changes and services geared towards the Y, Z and Google generations.
- One university, four campuses, many libraries: the challenge of inter-library cooperation.

We will also aim to foster a dialog between the participants about meeting the challenges presented to our changing profession, by adapting buildings and services to our patrons, managing different sources of information, open access, innovation and more.
